ELIGIBILITY QUESTIONS

Who is eligible for BonusDrive? How do I know if I am eligible?

BonusDrive is available to members of participating organizations and common household residents of members of those organizations.

These organizations include certain: credit unions, banks, employers, insurance companies, benefit providers, associations, and membership groups.

To check eligibility, please refer to the “Am I Eligible” section of the website.

I am eligible for BonusDrive through a participating organization. Can my family use the program too?

Family members who live in the household of the person(s) affiliated with the eligible organization can use BonusDrive.

If my household member is eligible through me, how do they complete the application?

When members of the household apply, the application must be completed in the name of person who bought or leased vehicle.

Family members of eligible individuals must reside at the same address and complete the application with that information.

Example: Your spouse buys an eligible vehicle and is going to apply for BonusDrive because he or she is eligible via your employment at XYZ company. He or she needs to complete the application in his or her name, at the same address, but submit your proof of eligibility.

For members of the household, how do you tie them to the eligible person? Proof of residency at the same home?

As long as he/she resides at the same address and this is listed on the application.

What dealerships/locations are eligible?

There are no restrictions to vehicles sold by dealers of listed automotive brands within the 50 US states and the District of Columbia.

Purchases in US territories or foreign countries are not eligible.

Does it have to be a new vehicle? Can you define “new” vehicle?

Yes, the vehicle must be designated as “new” on the purchase or lease agreement. Any vehicle previously sold (including dealer to dealer sales), registered, titled, or with more than 1,000 miles at time of purchase is not eligible.

FIAT CHRYSLER AUTOMOBILES (FCA) ELIGIBILITY

What FCA vehicles are eligible for BonusDrive?

Please refer to the “Choose my Perfect Drive” section of the website.

What is a conquest purchase?

Participation in BonusDrive when purchasing an FCA branded vehicle (Chrysler, Dodge, FIAT®, Jeep®, and Ram) requires a “conquest sale”. For purposes of this program, a “conquest sale” is defined as:

The purchase of a brand new FCA vehicle where by a competitive brand vehicle (non-FCA brand) is replaced

OR

In cases where an FCA branded vehicle is traded-in to purchase a new FCA branded vehicle, the BonusDrive applicant can also demonstrate ownership of at least one non-FCA branded vehicle in their household.

Can you provide an example of conquest purchases?

Example 1: An applicant currently owns a Ford Explorer and trades the vehicle in and buys a new Jeep Wrangler. Ford is a competing manufacturer so this qualifies as a conquest buyer.

Example 2: An applicant trades in her Chrysler 200 and leases a new Dodge Challenger. Although the applicant traded in a FCA vehicle for another FCA vehicle, the applicant still qualifies because her husband owns a Nissan Rouge. Since the household owns a non-FCA vehicle she is eligible.

Example 3: An applicant's lease expires on their 2015 Ram 1500 and they lease a new Ram 1500. Although the applicant traded a Ram for a Ram, the applicant also owns a 2017 Honda Accord, so the applicant will qualify as a conquest buyer because she owns a competing manufacturer's brand.

Can you provide an example purchase/lease that is not a conquest and therefore won't qualify for the cash back from FCA?

Example: An applicant owns a Jeep Grand Cherokee, her daughter turns 16 and she decides to lease her a Jeep Renegade. Because the applicant only owns/leases FCA vehicles the applicant will not qualify as a conquest buyer.

How do you prove that you or a household member have a non-FCA vehicle?

Title for non FCA vehicle

Registration card
